August 24 & 25, 2019

Impatience reveals something about our human nature that we need to be acutely aware of. We tend to want to find our comfort, security, and worth in things that are tangible; things that we can control to deal with our impatience. When we act in our impatience, we can easily put our personal agenda above God's plan for us. The story of Exodus 32 is a stark reminder of the high price we pay when we act in our impatience.

1. When we become impatient with God, our true idols will be revealed
2. When we pursue our personal idols, we will need help to restore our relationship with God
3. When we minimize our idolatry, we are pushing away God's leading, God's peace, and God's work in our lives
4. The best and only healthy response to idolatry is to ask for God's forgiveness and receive His cleansing in our lives
 - a. Admit it
 - b. Own it
 - c. Confess it
